Drawings

The drawings are objected to because in figure 1B, hard disk assembly 33 has been mislabeled as "head disk assembly" (see paragraph [0028]). Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 2, 4, 5, 7-11, and 13-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Glover who teaches a first (track) level decoder, a second (sector) level decoder which generates erasure pointers ("During readback, the sector level ECS generates an erasure pointer", abstract) for use by the first (track) level decoder to correct the data bytes so identified ("for use by the track level ECS. In this manner, the track level ECS can correct up to three uncorrectable sectors", abstract) and where the first (track) level decoder detects and corrects random errors ("a sector level ECS for correcting errors within a sector during readback", column 3, lines 47-49) where the disk drive controller de-interleaves data bytes ("The data sector itself is interleaved to generate the three codewords" column 21, lines 39-40), check bytes and codeword check bytes ("The track level error correction capability is increased by interleaving the track level redundancy. In the preferred embodiment, each sector is divided into three interleaves", column 3, lines 60-61), and where syndromes are used for error correction (syndrome generator 20 Fig. 1C) by Reed-Solomon decoders ("a Reed-Solomon decoder", column 6, line 15) as well as both an ECC read processor (see Figs. 3C and 4B for example) and an ECC write processor (Fig. 2).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 3, 6, 12, and 17 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: none of the cited references teach or fairly suggest a second level decoder which uses the block level check bytes to correct random errors in a codeword if the first level decoder does not correct all of the random errors as in applicants' claim 3, the use of an inverse integrating matrix as in applicants' claims 6 and 17, and a second level decoder which uses a block level check bytes to correct random errors in a codeword if a first level decoder does not correct all of the random errors as in applicants' claim 12.
